When Judge Greer announced his intention to enforce the gambling cot all the results like the property of the Shelby Oriminal Court. act, all the regularly licensed houses closed at once. Several knights of the green cloth employed attorneys; made up a sham case, expecting in that way to test the constitutionality of the law. The Supreme Court decided that the case must be a bona fide one in every respect-

One of them said be still hoped far Garvin's release, but confessed that the hope was a forlorn one. He denied positively that Garvin HAD BEEN PAID ONE THOUSAND DOLLARS. to test the law and said he did it of hi own accord. Another gambler said he did not think that Garvin would ever leave the penitentiary until his time exared unless he escaped. If he had ever seen paid anything he did not know it.

One of the officers of the ccurt said that Garvin was paid $500 as soon as the indictment was found and that after his trial he said to one of the leading gamblers of the city, "I don't like the way that judge talks and I'll just raise you $500 more." One of the police force said he did not believe from his knowledge of Garvin's character that anything had been paid him. He described as having a very high opinion of himself and thought his before the country as the fearless fighter of an oppressive law.

There Moses and Elias from the spiritworld appeared, and were personally recognized and talked with Jesus Christ. And He Hiaself said: "Many shall come from the East and West and North and South, and sit down in His kingdom with Abraham and Isaac and Jacob. Dives and Lazarus illustrate the same fact. There was then in the spirit world a recognition of personal identity and individuality. And Dives also remembered the world he had left, and desired that messengers should be sent to warn his "five brothers" not to come to that place of torment.
